Phil's Forecast:

Pitt has to be thankful, they are not heading to the Compass bowl for the 4th str ssn. QB Tom Savage has NFL size at 6-5 and had a solid ssn with a 21-9 ratio. The D is led by multiple award winner DT Aaron Donald who led the NCAA in TFL's. An argument could be made that BG has been one of the most impressive teams in the country as they outscored their last five opponents by 36 PPG. However, their great success caught the attention of many AD's and HC Dave Clawson was hired at WF. The interim here will be ST's coach Adam Scheier who has no HC exp. Despite the huge diff in overall records, these two teams are even talent-wise and there may not be a bigger difference in sked strength this bowl season with Pitt playing 9 bowl teams (BG just 5). When you add in the fact that the Falcons are playing with an interim here, I am picking the upset.

Phil's Forecast:

1st-year head coach Matt Wells did an excellent job getting the Aggies to their 3rd straight bowl despite losing QB Chuckie Keeton mid-way through the season. They relied heavily on their D to carry the way. After clinching their first 12-0 regular season in school history, NIU was beaten by BG in the MAC Champ game and their BCS dreams were vanquished. Even with the disappointing finish, QB Jordan Lynch finished third in the Heisman voting and needs just 119 yards to top 2,000 yards rushing TY. Outside of the massive QB edge, the Aggies have better talent and also have played the tougher sked. Their defense, like BG, has the front seven that can contain Lynch and you have to think the Huskies will be suffering from having their BCS bubble burst.

Phil's Forecast:

The Herd came into the ssn as one of the most improved tms in the country and while they did improve from 5 wins to 9 this year, it could have been a lot better if not for some missed opportunities. The offense is led by QB Cato and a much improved ground gm that avg'd 211 ypg (5.1). LY the D all'd 43 ppg and 457 ypg but TY it was one of the MIP units in the country as they all'd just 23 ppg and 367 ypg. MD HC Edsall came into the ssn on the hot seat after going just 6-18 his 1st 2 yrs here, but both of those ssns were ravaged by injuries. In Sept, the Terps were one of the most impressive tms in the country as they started 4-0 winning all 4 gms by DD's. Then the injuries mounted yet again but the Terps managed to win a couple down the stretch. Marshall's offense clearly is the best unit on the field and they have an opportunity here to grab their 1st DD-win ssn s/'02. Can't back down now from my Most Improvec Team in the country prediction.

Phil's Forecast:

The Orange were not only making a HC change TY, but were also taking the step up to ACC play. In the finale vs BC, they looked like they were dead in the water but benefited from poor clock management by BC and scored w/:06 left to get to 6 wins. The offense did not get great play from their QB's TY as Hunt and Allen combined for a 12-17 ratio. They do have a solid run gm that avg'd 194 rush ypg. The Gophers opened the ssn a perfect 4-0 as they won all 4 gms by DD's. Prior to the Michigan gm, HC Kill had another epileptic attack and DC Claeys took over. They managed to start 8-2, but lost their L/2 gms. The offense features 2 QB's as Nelson is the passer (9-6 ratio) while Leidner is 240 lbs and is the 2nd leading rusher. The defense all'd just 22 ppg TY, the best mark here s/'03. The Gophers nearly pulled out a huge upset LY here in this bowl and they will want redemption by getting to 9 wins for the 1st time s/'03.

Phil's Forecast:

The Huskies make their 4th consec bowl but will be w/o Sarkisian here who departs for USC. Former star QB Marques Tuiasosopo will serve as the interim HC, but he has very little experience. On the other side, Mendenhall is one of the best bowl coaches in the country boasting a 6-2 mark. After 3 consec 7-6 seasons, I expected the Huskies to finally break through and top that win total TY and did so getting to 8 wins for the 1st time s/'01. The offense is led by Price while Sankey is one of the best RB's in the country. The Cougars offense is led by QB Hill who completed just 54% but made up for it w/1,208 rush yds. The D is led by AA LB Van Noy who did not have the same type of ssn he had a yr ago as the Cougs D all'd 7 ppg and 118 ypg more than LY. On paper, I feel UW is the much better tm, but Mendenhall's huge coaching edge concerns me. I will still call for the Huskies to win by 7, which is downgraded from the 10-pt forecast my computer calls for.

Phil's Forecast:

Rutgers got off to a respectable 4-1 start w/the lone loss at Fresno by 1. The inj to RB Paul James in the Ark gm (573 rush yds 1st 4) started their downfall as they lost 5 of their next 6 gms by DD's. In the finale, w/a bowl bid on the line, they beat USF 31-6 as James got his 1st 100-yd gm s/wk #3. Coming off their best ssn in 2 decades, expectations were high as always for the Irish TY but their ssn officially took a turn for the worse back in May when dynamic QB Golson was kicked out of school. After a 3-2 start, they won 5 str but inj's took their toll and they finished w/3 or more losses for incredibly the 19th time in 20 yrs. They had to turn to Rees but similar to 2011, TO's became an issue especially in the 4 losses as he had an 8-9 ratio in those while posting a 19-4 ratio in the 8 wins. ND is clearly the superior tm here and even w/o their 2 coordinators should win comfortably as Rees and his elite rec corps should take advantage of a Rutgers secondary all'g a 31-8 ratio TY, ranking #103 in my pass eff D.

Phil's Forecast:

The Bearcats are looking at getting to DD wins for the 6th time in 7Y, but this yr's tm clearly benefited from playing a weak sked as they only beat one tm w/a winning record. While QB Kay completed 69% of his passes with a 22-11 ratio, it should be noted in the L/2 gms vs the best tms he faced all yr he comp just 57% of his passes w/a 2-4 ratio. The Tar Heels looked dead in the water at 1-5 TY, but starting w/a near upset of Miami, they turned their ssn around with 5 str wins to become bowl elig. It should be noted that all 6 of their losses came to tms who qualified for bowls while those tms avg'd 9 wins. After Renner was OFY in gm #8, the Tar Heels turned to the more mobile Williams who finished w/a 14-6 ratio while adding 478 rush yds in the L/8 gms. While the tms are even talent-wise on offense and defense, the in-state crowd, matchups, intangibles, ST's and sked are all in favor of the Tar Heels.

Phil's Forecast:

Despite having an NCAA-sanction cloud over them the Canes' program has steadily grown each year under Golden as they went from 6 wins to 7 and now TY have a chance, w/a win here, to get to their 1st DD-win total in a ssn s/'03. The offense is lec by QB Morris and a deep and talented WR corps led by Hurns and Coley and they should also see the return of Dorsett here who has missed the L/5 gms. Anything short of an unbeaten regular season and a BCS bowl trip was going to be categorized as a disappointing ssn for the Cardinals but TY's tm is still superior to LY's as they are +23 ppg and +195 ypg after being only +7 ppg and +78 ypg LY. QB Bridgewater was probably unfairly scrutinized TY as he still finished w/a higher comp % and a better td int ratio than LY. I actually think the Canes are the better tm and will be playing with a chip on their shoulder being an underdog and will call for the upset as the Canes are a best bet.

Phil's Forecast:

Outside of their huge efforts vs ND and OSU, Michigan was pretty mediocre most of the ssn. QB Gardner had an uneven yr as while he had more than 3,500 yds of total offense, TO's were an issue. The OL all'd a program-record 35 sks (9.8%) and avg'd just 131 rush ypg, the lowest here in 14 yrs. After B2B 10-win ssns, the Wildcats were in rebuild mode TY as they lost their all-everything QB Klein and only ret'd 2 st'rs on D. However, one can never underestimate the Cats with a HOF HC. The offense is led by a two-headed QB system as Waters threw for 2,000+ w/a 15-9 ratio while Sams is a dangerous runner w/785 rush yds and 11 td's. Michigan could be limited in play-calling with a banged up Gardner and I'll call for the Cats to pick up the win despite the fact that Snyder does struggle in bowl gms.

Phil's Forecast:

1st meeting and 1st appearance in the Armed Forces Bowl for both squads. Navy is bowling for the 10th time in 11 yrs while this is MT's 1st bowl appearance since '10 (despite 8 wins LY) and just their 4th all time. The Blue Raiders were one of the hottest tms in CUSA to end the ssn as they've won 5 str avg nearly 43 ppg during their win streak. Navy is also streaking having won 4 str to end the ssn while avg 44 ppg in that time frame. While MT does have extra time to prep for the option, Navy's offense shouldn't miss a beat as they are only playing on 16 days rest and their QB Reynolds who broke the NCAA single season mark for rush td's is the best player on the field.

Phil's Forecast:

1st meeting since the '71 Peach Bowl! Ole Miss is bowling in B2B ssns under HC Freeze, while this will be GT's 16th str bowl, good for 3rd longest active streak in the country. Both tms enter having lost 2 str against real foes (GT win over FCS tm). The Rebels struggled defending the run in the middle of the ssn, but have fixed those issues and enter with my #15 ranked rush D. Although they haven't faced the option attack this year, they'll have had plenty of time to prep for it during the extra bowl practices. Ole Miss has won 8 of their L/9 bowl games and makes it 9 of 10 here.

Phil's Forecast:

These tms have met 5 times but the last meeting was the '00 Holiday Bowl. This will be Mack Brown's final gm as HC of UT and they have been bowling 15 times during his 16 yr tenure. This will be Oregon's 9th str bowl appearance, but 1st under HC Helfrich. It was disappointing to say the least the way the Ducks closed out the ssn with an uninspired performance against Arizona and near loss to their rival OSU. Texas meanwhile, could've quit on their ssn following a rough early patch, but responded by playing their best ball in the middle of the ssn before dropping 2 of their L/3. Look for the Longhorns to play inspired ball for their outgoing cch and keep the score closer than what the 'experts' think.

Phil's Forecast:

This is about as big a mismatch as you will see this bowl ssn. TT limps into this one having lost 5 str and to make matters worse their starting QB Mayfield opted to leave the program. Ariz St was 1 win away from a Rose Bowl appearance as they had won 7 str before falling in the P12 Champ gm. The Sun Devils have my #14 ranked pass eff D, which will counter the TT pass happy offense. Meanwhile, ASU's well balanced offense is among the best in the country despite what the NCAA rankings say (my #7 off vs ncaa #30) and will put up pts with ease against a TT D that all'd nearly 49 ppg their L/5. The main question isn't who will win, but how many total points will be scored in this high scoring affair.

Phil's Forecast:

1st meeting as well as 1st time either of these tms have played in this bowl. This will be BC's 1st bowl s/'10 while UA is bowling in B2B yrs. Who is the best RB in the country? BC's Andre Williams became the 1st to rush for 2,000+ yds s/'07 and should be fine after he was inj in the reg ssn finale. Arizona's Ka'Deem Carey rushed for over 1,700 yds in B2B ssns and the Wildcats also get a healthy rushing contribution from QB Denker. The Eagles, however have a much better run D (#31 vs #64) and a big ST edge. While Zona is the better team here, I wouldn't be shocked to see BC pull the outright upset.

Phil's Forecast:

1st ever meeting in what should be a great matchup in El Paso. VT's 21 str bowl gms is the 2nd longest in the nation while UCLA is bowling for the 3rd yr in a row. The Hokies closed the ssn winning 2 of their L/3 while the Bruins won 4 of their L/5. It was a disappointing ssn for VT QB Thomas who finished with just a 16-13 ratio, but he was saved by my #4 ranked D in the country. While UCLA counters with my #22 ranked offense, they have 3 frosh starting on their OL which spells trouble against the Hokies exp'd DL. This game goes down to the wire and it could be a ST play that makes the diff which has been feast or famine for the Hokies TY.

Phil's Forecast:

These tms have met just once, way back in '75. Rice, the CUSA Champs, enters having won 9 of 10 incl 4 str. They are bowling in B2B yrs for the 1st time in over 50 yrs! After beginning Nov with 3 str losses, MSU closed the ssn with B2B wins incl beating their rival in the Egg Bowl. Throw the records out as the Bulldogs played a much tougher sked (#8 vs #95) and duel threat QB Prescott should be 100% healthy for this one. The Owls will find it tough to move the ball on my #22 ranked D and I look for the Bulldogs to win the game with relative ease.

Phil's Forecast:

This matchup involves a lot of firsts as this is the 1st meeting and 1st time playing in this bowl for both teams. This is also Duke's 1st time in history that they are bowling in B2B yrs! A&M makes their 5th str bowl game and they've won their last 2 postssn contests. Duke was 1 win away from a BCS bid as they won 10 gms for the 1st time. They had an 8 gm winning streak entering the ACC Champ gm. A&M closed the ssn losing B2B gms and while returning Heisman winner Manziel had a better ssn statistically than LY passing, he was let down by a pourous D that all'd an avg of 460 ypg. A&M will win the gm, but look for the Blue Devils and their underrated offense (my #46 ranking vs NCAA #70) to keep things closer than what the 'experts' think.
