Phil's Forecast:

Miami actually has lost their last 4 Monday night games by an average of 35-15. They have appeared in two prime time road games this year losing to the Saints and beating CIN in OT on an ultra-rare safety. TB has had little to cheer for at 0-8 but this is a rare chance in the spotlight which could give them a feel good game. TB RB Mike James had 158 yds last week in their near upset of SEA, a game they led 21-0. You may find this stat a surprise: While MIA is 4-4 this year, they are -54 ypg and while TB is 0-8 this year they are only -44 ypg. TB has also taken on the #6 schedule and MIA the #11. MIA is now dealing with the Incognito/Martin episode so they are down 2 OL and have given up 35 sacks in half a season of work (1 every 8.25 pass att's). TB has 4 losses by 3 points or fewer this year and this is Mike Glennon's team now as he enters his 5th game. This is TB's Super Bowl and a chance to avoid a winless season.
